Design

The design is influenced by the following:

- Scale and style of the existing house
- Substandard unauthorised works carried out by previous owner
- Householder requirements

- Structural defects found.

The Site

The use of the site is an existing house.

No works have been carried out that effect the external appearance of the building, with exception of the previous installation of conservation rooflights which are located away from the principal elevation.

Layout

The layout is as existing except for the addition of a staircase to the second floor which has been located above the existing staircase.

The current loft space is one large room. The proposed layout will be adapted to form two separate habitable spaces (home office and games room).

Scale

All works are internal.

Appearance

Consideration has been given to the current effect of the exposed beams within the space, with all beams remaining exposed and unaltered by the addition of the wall, doorway, heating and lighting.

Taking into consideration the appearance and character of the property, the installation of partition walls and/or doorways will be determined by the position of the exposed roof timbers to ensure as much character as possible is retained/visible, with no fixings to be drilled or nailed into the original timber beams.

The proposed alterations will not impact any of the external aspects of the building.

Access

Access to the building remains unchanged.
