NB: The colours represented on the attached proof are the best possible representations for the requested artwork. If there is any doubt that the colours may not be suitable for the production of the flag/banner, contact the designer to discuss further options. If the designer has any doubt that the colours provided may not suit the print, the designer will let the client know of this fact. It is up to the client to discuss the matter further with the designer. If the flag/banner is being digitally printed, it is common that the colours of the final product may not match up exactly to the supplied proof, this is due to the fact that the print is on a material other than paper. If the flag is being hand sewn, we are more than happy to supply a sample swatch of material for approval. Requesting a sample swatch may increase the production time for the requested product. In the event the client supplies the artwork in a jpeg/digital/photshop EPS or Photshop PSD format, Hantson External Display Systems has no control as to how the artwork will be printed. This is due to the fact that the artwork supplied is in a format that is unable to be edited at the designer's discretion. If the colour is not questioned, Hantson External Display Systems will not be responsible for the re-print/production of any product. Once the artwork has been finalized and the customer has signed and dated the final proof, Hantson External Display Systems will not be responsible for any errors in the composition/details of the flag/banner.
